LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

A copy of the above identified patent application which claims benefit of provisional application serial number 60/252,801 was attempted to be mailed by Express Mail yesterday, November 20, 2001, and was rejected by the San Rafael Post Office, CA, 94901. The Post Office employee advised that all such mail should instead be sent via first class. Accordingly, the entire contents, including a check for the filing fee and the Express Mail Envelope and Express Mail Number, were inserted into a first class envelope and mailed to the USPTO. However today, November 21, 2001 during a telephone consult with a cordial USPTO representative, it was recommended that I re-mail the entire patent application, absent the filing fee, via Express Mail to the newly provided address as shown above. This action was advised so as to ensure my personal receipt of an Express Mail label with today's date thereon. The USPTO representative further suggested that I omit the filing fee and send it specifically to this address, where a request is made to "combine the documents that were sent yesterday with the Express Mail copies that are being mailed today, using the check that was mailed yesterday as the filing fee for this application". Thank you for your extended cooperation during this difficult time.

Respectfully submitted,
